

Celebrity Midday Soirée will have live entertainment (Khicks urban ballroom dance group, DJ Party-Man), food, giveaways, and a silent auction. Kyle Moore (Buffalo Bills defensive end) and several teammates will attend. Felicia Young, mother of Vince Young (Philadelphia Eagles quarterback), will sign copies of her book, Touchdown From Heaven. Lucille O’Neal, mother of Shaquille O’Neal (retired NBA star) will be onhand to sign copies of her book, Walk Like You Have Somewhere To Go, for the first 50 purchasers of VIP tickets! Other NFL and NBA players, members of the Professional Football Players Mothers Association, and members of Mothers of Professional Basketball Players Association are also slated to attend!

The Celebrity Midday Soirée is designed to raise awareness of the mental and emotional challenges often faced by families of children who are given up for adoption, placed in foster care or in other at-risk situations, and to share information on the programs and support that ITIA provides to address these areas.

All proceeds of the Celebrity Midday Soirée go towards programs that:

- Promote the importance of maintaining positive thinking and beliefs.
- Foster sustainable training initiatives that require participants to unleash the unlimited potential and power contained in their words and locked in their thoughts.
- Challenge participants to apply themselves to create what eventually they will become and/or achieve.

I Think I Am Foundation is a life long dream that Deanna Moore, founder and president, has had to help children like herself, who are given up for adoption or placed in foster care to realize their unlimited potential despite their beginning. She is an avid believer that you are what you think and her desire is to help these young people and their families to develop positive belief patterns so that they can be successful in school, relationships, sports, and other activities.

Moore, who grew up in a low income environment, understands how some people can never see a clear path to excel and rise above their circumstances. She makes sure to include the family because often times we focus on helping children, but in most cases the family is so chaotic that whatever impact we have on the child may not be carried over in the home and ultimately does not yield the desired results. Moore’s desire is to work closely with these families from elementary through college by providing resources that might not otherwise be available to them and exposing them to various settings that will promote healthier mindsets and positive attitudes with an expectation to achieve!

In Walk Like You Have Somewhere to Go, Lucille O’Neal takes you on a 40-year journey from “mental welfare to mental wealth.” You will laugh, you may cry, and in the process you will be encouraged, enlightened, and empowered.

As the mother of one of the greatest athletes of all time, her journey is exceptional; but her story reveals that she is more than just Shaquille O’Neal’s mom. O’Neal is a woman you know, a woman you understand. Perhaps your own journey resembles hers.

She has been a rebellious teen, a single mother, a wife, a college student, a divorcee, and, above all, a woman of unique courage.

In Walk Like You Have Somewhere to Go, O’Neal shares her struggles and disappointments against the backdrop of her sweetest memories and proudest accomplishments. After 55 years, O’Neal has gained the wisdom to recognize her wrongs and guide others down a different path. Her story is proof that it’s never too late for a new beginning.

Sheryl Howard always wanted a house filled with children. She wanted 10 children and if all of hers had survived, that’s how many she would have had. Instead between her first child and her second, she miscarried seven times and it broke her heart. “You actually say, ‘What’s wrong? Am I woman enough to have babies?’ she said softly. That’s why the second child she gave birth to,

Dwight Howard II (Orlando Magic), was special right from his first days on earth.

Although she only gave birth to three, years later her home still filled with children. Boys, specifically. Basketball players, more specifically. And as her son Dwight grew into the best high school basketball player in America, at a school so small his graduating class totaled 16 people, those boys grew with him. They rode home from basketball practice with the Howards, sometimes spent the night, woke up the next morning and went to school all together.

Many came from broken homes, some didn’t know their fathers. Their families intertwined with Howard’s, a two-parent household with three children. Together they won the Georgia Class A state championship for Southwest Atlanta Christian Academy in 2004, Dwight Howard II’s senior year. A few months later the Orlando Magic selected Howard No. 1 overall in the NBA draft.

Join Felicia Young on the sidelines as she reviews the tapes of her past and shares how God changed her game plan.

In the first quarter, get in the huddle with Young as she explicitly recalls the trying times of motherhood, marriage, and the bondage of addiction. She reveals the choices she made and the company she kept led her down a path of destruction.

In the second quarter, observe play by play how she loses everything: her brother, family, finances and hope for her future.... until she received a “Touchdown from Heaven.”

Felicia reflects upon the first half of her life and decides to make some much more needed halftime adjustments. As she kicks off the third quarter, her life is intercepted by the Power of Holy Spirit, she confronts her past and conforms to the ways of God.

In the final minutes, now armed with the Word, Felicia runs new routes and is destined to help bring about victory in the lives of others. In the message of hurt, healing, hope, and happiness you are sure to find your place on the team! The game is not over....until YOU win! You’ll laugh, you’ll cry, you’ll cheer, you’ll enjoy the game!

Grace and elegance are words that truly describe the multifaceted ministry of Dr. Sirretta Williams, pastor, evangelist and mother of Laveranues Coles (NFL retired). After her appearance on the Oprah Show, she is now the author of a book entitled, When Your Seasons Collide—Dealing With The Family Secret, on a much needed subject out of her pain as a mother whose child experienced molestation. She has also founded an organization called “Breaking The Silence.”

Tearing down the strongholds of the enemy is the norm in her very powerful ministry because of this servant’s faithful obedience to the call of God on her life for the last 22 years. In her book, Williams speaks about her God-given gift of the ability to minister inner healing in a very personal and touching manner, which is her trademark, because she realizes that the hearts of God’s people have been wounded and she is commissioned to help heal them in Jesus name. This unique and special combination of deliverance and inner healing ministry has indeed blessed a multitude of people all across the nations of the world and Pastor Sirretta is the first one to say, “To God be the Glory.”
